

BELONG

Jesus in his mercy
Stepped into this world
God of God became a little child
Extravagant this kindness
So generous His love
Welcoming each sinner reconciled

And now to the hungry, there is food at the feast
And now to the thirsty, there are wells that run deep
And now to the stranger, lonely, and those cast to the side
There is a place
At His table

In each face of suffering
In each hungry stare
Give us eyes to see You all around
Welcoming the stranger,
Visiting the sick,
Compelled by love we move out in Your power

And now to the hungry, we share food from the feast
And now to the thirsty, we pour from wells so deep
And now to the stranger, captive, and those cast to the side
There is a place
At His table

Where we belong
Round this table of peace
Round the banquet and feast as a family
Where we belong
Every daughter and son
Through the cross all is won and we come
Where we belong
